

Foreign Voluntary Workers Compensation by Berkley Life Sciences

Global business travel spending was estimated at $1.25 trillion (USD) in 2014 and is projected to increase 5.8% by 2019. With significant opportunities available in the global life sciences marketplace, and an upward trend in spending growth in pharmaceuticals and biotechnology, corporate travel in the life science industry is no longer limited to the United States. Whether temporarily travelling abroad to meet clients, attending conferences, or relocating for a long-term assignment, navigating the overseas landscape can be both complicated and risky for life science companies and their employees.

Berkley Life Sciences Global Personnel Protection combines Foreign Voluntary Workers Compensation Insurance with UnitedHealthcare Global’s medical and travel assistance services to protect companies and their global mobile workforce. Whether faced with the inconvenience of a lost passport or prescription, or a more serious medical issue requiring hospitalization or repatriation, companies and their global workforce have the peace of mind that they are protected with Berkley Life Sciences.
